UBS to sponsor Global MilSatCom 2017

London, United Kingdom
7 - 9 November 2017
Park Plaza Riverbank Hotel

October 6, 2017, Toronto, Canada - UBS is proud to announce its sponsorship of the Global MilSatCom in London on 7th to 9th November 2017.

Global MilSatCom Conference and Exhibition is a three day event that will see developments and updates to MilSatCom programmes from around the world discussed with presentations from leading figures and networking sessions. Key themes and challenges at the core of the MilSatCom community will be the basis of discussion and will include the need for resiliency and robustness within SatCom systems, interoperability and flexibility within platforms, as well as the growing importance of allied collaboration.

“We are happy to be participating for the second year in a row and now sponsoring such an important event and increase our presence in military and satellite communications.” said Arthur Markaryan, V.P. Defense and Space. “UBS is looking forward to this event in regards to reinforcing our relationships with other industry leaders and patrons, while exchanging ideas for future product development. Our Business Development/Sales Manager Alex DelMistro will be presenting our latest product offerings on Day 3.”

UBS will present its latest developments and solutions in SatCom and Military product department, amplifier systems and RADAR applications.
